

VARIED PROGRAMS AT THE MOTION PICTURE HOUSES THIS WEEK

Claudia Muzio is the first of the Ten Stars of T. Arthur Smith's series. Her voice is even more charming than her face.

This pose is characteristic of many shown by Alice Eis and Albert French in their narrative dances at B. F. Keith's. While it looks very simple it's said to be extremely strenuous exercise.

One can hardly blame him for looking anxious and pessimistic, even though he is holding tight to Miss Optimist's hands, for Vivian Martin is so charming that lots of others will fall in love with her picture at Crandall's.

Slackers beware of the Casino Theater this week for Miss Emily Stevens and the photoplay she's featured in are liable to make you ashamed of yourself.

Coming to the Theaters

THE PRINCESS WILLOW BRANCH in "The Willow Tree," is the most charming embodiment of what might be called a Japanese Gaiety. The play is a three-act fantasy of Nippon, by J. H. Benrimo and Harrison Rhodes, that has been running all season at the "John and Harris Theater," which "comes to the National next week."

THE WILLOW TREE might truly be called a dream play, for it is set in an atmosphere idealized by the tenderness of the two principal characters who find each other in the story house, set in a garden lighted by "the lantern of a thousand kindresses" and "the lantern of love."

attractions. Others will be Swor and Avery, the blackface impersonators; Bert Leslie, "The King of Slang," and company in "Hogan in Mexico;" Mile Vera Sabina and company in "The Little Ballet Russe;" Gaudier's Animated toymen; Benny and Woods, the pipe organ recitals, and two more features to be announced later.

POLIS. "Captain Russell, U. S. A.," a drama dealing with the present struggle in Europe, will be the sensational offering at Polis Theater next week. Hal Reid is the author of this celebrated war drama, which made a distinct hit last week on its presentation in New York at the Lexington Theater. The story deals chiefly with a red-blooded American captain, who is first seen at home and later attached to General Pershing's staff "Somewhere in France." It is bristling with exciting situations, stirring climaxes, splendid sentiment and rich comedy.

GAYETY. Something entirely new in burlesque productions is promised at the Gayety Theater next week when the clever artists who make up the cast of "The Million Dollar Dolls" will make their initial bow of the season here. A sparkling musical myth, entitled, "In Doll Land," is the piece de resistance offered by this organization. The leading members of the company are Dan Marble, Cliff Bragdon, Grace Palmer, Gladys Parker, Harry Mandell, Norman Barry, Scotty Friedell and Harold Carr, while the chorus harbors an even two dozen.

STRAND. The friends and admirers of the noted stage beauty, Maxine Elliott, will be interested to know that she will make her first appearance as the star in "The Retreat of the Germans at the Battle of Arras," Blossoms Seely and company and Karl Jörn, the grand opera tenor, are the two costars.

Strand Theater. This is the third release of the celebrated Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, which scored such success with "Polly of the Circus" and "Baby Mine" on the screen.

LOEW'S COLUMBIA. Beginning next Sunday and continuing for the entire week, Douglas Fairbanks will be seen in his newest picture, "The Man From Painted Post," at Loew's Columbia. The occasion also marks the second anniversary of this theater in presenting photoplays. It is said that never before has Douglas Fairbanks had a better opportunity to present to the best advantage his talents.

GARDEN. The program at Moore's Garden Theater for the week beginning October 7 will include the famous Broadway stage beauty, Edna Goodrich, in an absorbing film production entitled "Queen X," and the popular star, William Russell, in "Sands of Sacrifice," an intensely dramatic photoplay.

CRANDALL'S. The long heralded film, "Redemption," in which Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and her son, Russell Thaw, are pictured in the central roles, will be shown at Crandall's next week from Sunday to Thursday, inclusive. This plot of this picture is said to provide an accurate reflection of the many events in Mrs. Thaw's life, without any sensationalism. For the last two days of the week, the attraction will be "Rasputin, the Black Monk," an absorbing and timely story. Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Arthur Ashley, Irving Cummings, and Henry Hall are members of the pictured cast.

SAVOY. The Robert Hichens romance, "Barbary Sheep," which is to be shown at Crandall's Savoy on Sunday and Monday of next week, marks the entry of Elsie Ferguson as featured player into the ranks of film players. Among the other films scheduled during the week are: Tuesday, Mary Anderson in "The Divorcee;" Wednesday, Harold Lockwood in "Under Handicap;" Thursday, Ethel Clayton in "The Woman Beneath;" Friday, Wallace Reid in "The Hostage;" Saturday, Vivian Martin in "Little Miss Optimist."

APOLLO. A screen version of the Bayard Veillier novel, "Within the Law," heads the list of attractions announced for showing at Crandall's Apollo next week. Alice Joyce and Harry Morey are the featured players in this absorbing drama. The attractions announced for the rest of the week include: Tuesday, June Elvidge and Carlisle Blackwell in "The Marriage Market;" Wednesday, Louise Huff and Jack Pickford in "The Varmint;" Thursday, Harold Lockwood in "Under Handicap;" Friday, Vivian Martin in "Little Miss Optimist;" Saturday, Mary Anderson in "The Divorcee."

AVENUE GRAND. Mae Marsh, star of "Intolerance" and "The Birth of a Nation," will be seen in the first of the notable Goldwyn films, "Polly of the Circus," at Crandall's Avenue Grand next Sunday and Monday. The program for the rest of the week includes Tuesday, Harold Lockwood in "Under Handicap;" Wednesday, Mary Anderson in "The Divorcee;" Thursday, Virginia Pearson in "When False Tongues Speak;" Friday, Jack Pickford and Louise Huff in "The Varmint;" Saturday, George M. Cohan in "The Seven Keys to Baldpate."

Yes, girls, it's Julian Eltinge, and at Loew's Columbia Theater this week he will be pictured in numerous gowns just as stunning as this one.

Offerings of Current Week For Capital Theater Goers

Subjects: Tuesday, Wallace Reid in "The Squaw Man's Son;" Wednesday, George Beban in "The Cook of Canyon Camp;" Thursday, Earle Williams in "Transgression;" Friday, Rupert Julian and Ruth Clifford in "A Kentucky Cinderella;" Saturday, George M. Cohan in "The Seven Keys to Baldpate."

AVENUE GRAND. Douglas Fairbanks will be seen at Crandall's Avenue Grand today and tomorrow in his latest film "Down to Earth." His role is that of an energetic young American who, by a strange happening, becomes the proprietor of a fashionable sanitarium at Newport and who sets out to cure his wealthy patients, one of whom is his sweetheart, of their many ailments, real or imaginary, by the adoption of heroic methods, one of which includes their transportation to a so-called desert island, where they are forced to work their recovery to health. Eileen Percy is pictured in the role opposite the athletic comedian. Other of the week's film attractions scheduled for the Avenue Grand are as follows: Tuesday, Olga Petrova in "To the Death;"

WEDNESDAY. Earle Williams in "Transgression;" Thursday, June Caprice in "Every Girl's Dream;" Friday, June Elvidge and Carlisle Blackwell in "The Marriage Market;" Saturday, Billie Burke in "The Mysterious Miss Terry."

ARCADIA. The Arcade has rounded out a most successful first week. The big crowds every evening proving that good floor and fine orchestra were appreciated.

The Arcade offers a place where popular priced dancing can be enjoyed amid refined surroundings. Monday and Thursday of last week, which were ladies' night, free to the feminine contingent, proved so popular that the management has decided to repeat them this Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Dancing is free every evening until 9 o'clock.

CENTRAL COLISEUM. Much interest is attached to the announcement that the management of the Central Coliseum will devote a certain part of every evening to prize dancing. The Coliseum's orchestra continues to entertain the dancers with their syncopated melody.

TEN STAR CONCERTS.

The announcement of the Ten Star Concert Series program for the third season assures music lovers here of an interesting season of music at popular prices. While the primal purpose of the course is to introduce to Washingtonians the favorites of elsewhere, the man, requests from the patrons has influenced the management to include some of the stars of last year, among them Leginska, Anna Case, and Eddy Brown. The dates of the ten Friday afternoons, October 26, November 2, 9, 16, March 1, 22, are so arranged as not to conflict with other musical events.

The engagement of Claudia Muzio of the Metropolitan Opera Company, the soprano who shares the honors with Caruso in "Aida," promises an unusual treat. Julia Clausen and Margarete Matzenauer are sure to find favor with Washington audiences. Maud Powell, Lucy Gates, Theo. Karle, Paul Reimera, Eddy Brown, Leopold Godowsky, Arkady Bourstin and the Russian Symphony Orchestra completes the well balanced course.
